

Department of Classics

About the department

The Classics Department is a centre of excellence for both teaching and research. Our staff are international specialists who publish regularly in all branches of classical literature, ancient history, philosophy, art and archaeology. A wide selection of modules is available to visiting students from language work to literary, historical, archaeological and philosophical topics. The following is a complete list of all the Classics modules available to Visiting Students. If there are issues on which you have questions which are not addressed here, you will have an opportunity to raise them with Professor Lene Rubinstein (L.Rubinstein@rhul.ac.uk) during the application process. Once you start your studies at Royal Holloway, the Visiting Students Co-ordinator for Classics will be available to support you with your queries.

Entry requirements

The modules listed below are open to all Study Abroad, International and Erasmus students, subject to any required previous knowledge or qualifications, as stated in the module outlines below.

Each module is either 15 or 30 UK Credits and starts in either the Autumn Term (September) or the Spring Term (January). When the college timetable finalises in September, it may become necessary to change/swap a module due to a clash either with another chosen module within Classics or, more often, with other chosen modules from other Departments. In such a case, the Classics Advisor will offer advice and guidance on possible alternative Classics modules from the present list.

The information contained in the module outlines on the following pages is correct at the time of publication but may be subject to change as part of our policy of continuous improvement and development.
